Excerpt from Corn-Law Fallacies: With the Answers The only effective way to meet the fallacies perseveringly put forward on the important subject of the Corn Laws, is, to collect them patiently as they appear, and publish them with the answers. In pursuance of this plan, the author of the following replies has, in the course of something more than eleven years, collected and published between seven and eight hundred; and the crop seems still to be as plentiful as ever. 1. - Would not an admission of foreign corn cause a great extent of British land to be put out of tillage, and by consequence, a great number of agricultural labourers to be put out of employment? - Standard, Aug. 18, 1838. Answer - It would cause a certain extent to be put out of tillage, just as, if Manchester was walled up, and the people fed with corn grown in flower-pots and on the tops of houses, opening the gates would cause the flower-pots to be put out of tillage, and the labourers employed on them to be put out of...
