

There Are No Words

By Mary Calhoun Brown

Paperback. Condition: New. 132 pages. There Are No Words by Mary Calhoun Brown, is a heartwarming tale of trials and triumph, judgment and acceptance; one that challenged my beliefs and brightened my day. Its short, its sweet, and its worth far more recognition that it will probably get. Jaxons world is engaging from page one, the authors simple quiet style lending itself well to such a gentle, thoughtful read. . . . Lines feel like an interpretation of love by a misunderstood twelve-year-old, and a frankly more honest one that you can find in most fiction. . . . Love and tolerance are certainly abundant, but unlike most teen books in this niche, it is balanced with sorrow, anger and prejudice in real-life doses, which rescues it from sentimentality and gives it a whole new dimension of excellence. Reader Views The most terrifying future is a future you cannot change. There Are No Words tells the story of a mute girl who finds herself with a voice, but sent back decades ago. With the knowledge of a train wreck that will kill one of her grandfathers friends, Jaxon MacKenzie finds herself in a time before said accident. But a twelve...
