Roger Clap: Relating Some of God s Remarkable Providence to Him, in Bringing Him Into New-England; And Some of the Straits and Afflictions the Good People Met With Here in Their Beginnings, and Instructing, Counselling, Directing and Commanding His Children, and Chil Upon my searching for materials for our Chronology, the following piece, with others, coming to hand, I cannot but think it worthy of the publick view. Not that I suppose it will please the eye of the politer world; but because it gives a strong and lively image of the extraordinary pious spirit and design of those English people, who first came over and dwelt in this Indian Wilderness; and in every serious mind cannot but raise a veneration for them, and a pleasure to review their bright examples. The Author was one among them; an eye-witness of the things he writes of; and by the publick and continued esteem his country paid him in his day, his testimony comes with power upon us; and the style so plain and natural, that in the reading, it seems as if we came over with him, and were living in those pious times. He shows the mighty spirit of love to God and zeal for his instituted worship, that moved and wrought in our predecessors: How heavenly-minded, how humble, and how contented under all the straits and difficulties of a new Plantation, at so great a distance from any human succour! He was desirous that God should have the glory of his providence, in bringing him, with so many pious people, into this hideous land, in preserving and supplying them, increasing, prospering, and working wonderful salutations...
